

The FAA knowingly made false and deceitful claims regarding safety in 1959 when it promulgated the age 60 rule and has obstructed all scientific studies that might have produced credible evidence to overturn the rule. The FAA knowingly ignored the recommendations of the 1980 National Institute of Aging panel that data on older pilots should be collected for the purposes of changing the age 60 rule.